

Community Garden News – Our first cucumbers

Very excited to get our first cucumbers, especially as they were well hidden under the tomatoes and zucchinis.

This week we did some tidying up and watering, and of course harvesting. There was more produce than shown in the photo, but we donated some to a photography class to do some still life studies. I hope they had fun with that – and someone got to eat them afterwards.

Mr Forbes wanted to introduce his VCAL students to the garden this week, so we gave him a wish list of jobs we'd love done. Can't wait to see what progress they make. Thanks for the willing help!

Next week will be a big one with our scheduled monthly workshop. The topic is companion planting, so if you're interested or want to share your own experience, please join us at 9.30 on Tuesday morning.

Also reserve some time on Saturday 15th March for the Kyneton Open Edible Gardens. You'll have the opportunity to see a number of edible gardens around town - both big and small - new and established. As part of the promotion for that, have a look at the article in the Guardian on Friday about our very own Community Garden.

Any donations of seeds or seedlings of edible plants are always appreciated, as well as any hay, straw, manure and other inputs.

As the Community Garden activities are all coordinated by Kyneton Transition Hub please direct any enquiries to kynetonth@gmail.com or phone Julie 5422 3023. Join us any Tuesday from 9.30 am.
